My Biography

Hello my friendly geeks. This is Adam here, and today I will tell you a bit of my life story. So lets start from the very beginning.

It all started on October 31st, when I was born, the way I came out of my mother, my leg was pinned in an awkward position. They said they would have to break it to get me out, and I would never be able to walk in my life. Then there was hope. A doctor had an idea to massage my leg into place to get me out and, thankfully it worked. Still to this day, my legs don't have many problems and I am on the track team.

Lets go a little bit more into my life. I was born in Eldorado, Arkansas. It was a very lost and boring place. There were no opportunities like I have now. I lived in the so called "hood" for ten years of my life, and 2 years in the country. I was raised in a low-income household and I was not the type of person you would call popular.

I had a few good friends and a few great friends whom I still talk and hang out with from time to time. I got my first friends at age 2. They were twins that were born 2 minutes apart and they have both been my best friends I've ever had. I also had many colored friends and many Mexican friends. I wouldn't have made it through all of my past if it wasn't for them. here, at Madegeek©, we do not discriminate you by how you look or the color of your skin in any way, shape, or form.

I also ran into many bullying bumps in my road of life. I've always been the poor, short, skinny guy that couldn't defend myself. Although, one day, I was pushed over the edge and beat the hell out of the bully and I was respected. If you are getting bullied; just know that you will overcome it, all you have to do is face it with no fear in your eyes.

So I moved into the country with my mother, my brother, and my step-father. It was nice because there was always something to do like fish, hunt, ride four-wheelers, and a few more things , but that life never quite felt right. Even though I would do all of those things, I always ended up finding myself on a computer surfing the internet and being beyond fascination with the computer itself. I always had the want to learn but never had my wits about me to actually research anything.

On October 28 of 2012, my step-father died in a drunk driving accident while driving home. He would've lived if he had his seatbelt on. That's why, to this day, I will not drink till I am stupid and why I always wear a seatbelt. But let's be honest, it's a 50/50 chance with a seatbelt so it's whatever.

After about a year of having a single mom supporting us and no other person paying the bills in the house, my mother met a man in Hot Springs, Arkansas named Kevin. Mom if you are reading this, thank you for everything you did for me back then, and I know you did the best you could and I thank you dearly for that. Anyways, I was a bit skeptical about him, but I met him, and he turned out to be an amazing person.

For a few months, him and my mom went back and forth from Eldorado to Hot Springs until finally they decided to get a house together in Hot Springs. I did not hesitate to accept the offer. I also had an aunt joe and granny that were the nicest and best people. My aunt joe always pushed me to do greater things in my life and I thank her for that. She is also a huge part of my life as well as my sweet granny.

So we finally got to Hot Springs and I attended Lake Hamilton School District. That is where I met Justin. He wasn't at all what I thought he was going to be. He was a guy that had the biggest stick up his ass but as I got to know him we became closer and closer throughout the school year. He told me many things about what he had done with previous websites of his and what he used to do. I never believed any part of it. He would even show me pictures and I still would think he got the images off of Google.

Finally, over the summer of 2014, we started hanging out much more. He finally showed me solid proof and proved me wrong on literally everything I ever doubted about him. As we hung out more, we thought about making a YouTube account. Many of ideas were thrown around, and we decided not to make the YouTube account. Then....THE MADEGEEK© IDEA WAS BORN!!!! We started a plan to make our own website since I was going through coding classes and he had so much experience of being a coder.

We continued on our idea and made the website, Geek-Con on August 20, 2014. It was alright, but we had many problems with our website hosting companies. About a month passed and we decided to name the site Madegeek©. We became more and more popular and for some reason, China was very interested in our website. No joke, we had 3,000 views a week from China.

The website, so far, is a dream that me and my great friend, Justin, is making slowly unfold. We are also very thankful for our fellow staff members: Ethan, Ted, Joe, Henry, Tristan, and Ashton. Even though we did have one staff problem that was taken care of we are now all set and running.

Lastly, my greatest thanks go out to the Webmaster, Justin. Bro, without you, this all would have never happened and I would've never been able to do any of this. Thank you man. If you are a person who has made it this long into the story, thank you very much for reading and actually giving a crap about all of this.
